Centers learn from each other

Last month, dozens of treatment centers gathered at the headquarters office of OrionNet Systems in Oklahoma City to participate in an intensive all-day training event designed to inform centers of the latest updates to their ThinkHealth software.

Due to changes in OHCA standards or EDS billing procedures, OrionNet continuously updates its software free of charge to insure the needs of ThinkHealth members are met.

OrionNet developers most recently updated ThinkHealth to comply with the Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services and to accommodate the State's October 1 change in service rates and RVUs.

During the event, centers also learned from each other as they discussed the updates and new procedures for staying compliant.

Suggestions or requests for minor changes in the software further customize it to meet their needs.

"We talk to our members, find out what the centers need, and then make sure our software can do that for them," said the president of OrionNet, who handles the training sessions personally. "It really is customized specifically for Oklahoma out-patient centers."

OrionNet offers website development

OrionNet would like to help you start the New Year with a new Internet presence for your business.

"With today's reliance on the Internet as a way to locate companies and to learn about their services, we think it is important for a center to have a professional-looking website, one that can be found easily by online searchers," OrionNet Systems President

OrionNet provides full-service, professional website development. The development includes optimizing the site for indexing by search engines like Google, Yahoo and others. OrionNet also can help with domain registration (Internet address) and website hosting.
